

Abstract of the Disclosure

A system and method for improving the process of attaching a hard disk micro-actuator to a slider device with a bonding agent such as epoxy, the slider having design characteristics to avoid various problems associated with bonding said components with a bonding agent such as epoxy.